

COURSE IN GENEALOGY

TRACING YOUR FAMILY HISTORY

U3A is now offering a course for members wishing to undertake research into their own family tree. This class is suitable for both beginners and people already undertaking research on their family history. Participants will be guided through how to commence their search, tools required for research including resources and web links, and how to organise the data.

Participants are able to work on their own family history projects while obtaining guidance from an experienced and knowledgeable professional, and learn from other members in the group. The Tutor Mac Cooper-McKenzie is a full-time genealogist, family historian and researcher.

For more information and to enrol, please go to the U3A website.

Course Code: 20LEC308.
