

Introduction to Creative Writing

Interested in exploring creative writing?

This new course will provide you with the initial tools to begin a project of your own. Introducing the basics of story structure, writing styles, narrative viewpoint, characterisation, setting/place and dialogue the course will be highly practical with many in-class exercises and examples.

The Tutor, Paul Garrety has recently moved to the Sunshine Coast and is the author of four books along with a number of prize-winning short stories. He now writes full-time under the name of Jack Garrety www.jackgarrety.com and in addition to a new book, due out late 2020, he continues to provide editorial feedback for novels, memoir and short stories.

Class participants will be encouraged to either commence or workshop an idea for a writing project of their own e.g. short story, memoir or novel for which feedback and encouragement from the Tutor and the group will be available, if required.

This 8 week course is available as a stand-alone, or as an introduction to a longer and more detailed creative writing course with U3A commencing Term One 2021. To enrol or to find out more details about this new class please go to the U3A website (Course Code: 20WRI303) or phone the U3A Office on 07 5430 1123.
